1901- Mrs. Will Burge-- Hope for Recovery

Mrs. Will Burge, who has not been expected to recover from her attack of pneumonia, is reported a little better this morning and there is a good chance now for her recovery. The news of the death of Lee has been kept from her as it was feared the shock would prove fatal. Wylie and Walter who are suffering from typhoid fever and Albert who is down with pneumonia are also reported some better, although not altogether out of danger. The other members of the family are being cared for by their relatives on this side of the river. Marvin and Thomas are at T. C. Winbourn's and Pearl is at E. E.

Winbourne, Juliana (Burge): Burge Hill Ranch 1880 TWP 1-67

Written by Mrs. J. W. (Julina Winbourn) Burge, about 1936. The following two articles were printed in the Special Centennial Edition of the Blue and White Courier (high school newspaper) when Dorothy Lee Burge, granddaughter of Julina Burge, was on the staff:

Lost Boy

"At the time of one of the Indian raids, T. C. Winbourn gave those fleeing to safety an added scare. In the fall of 1864 the settlers on the west side of the river were warned that a band of Indians had massacred a family to the north. The settlers immediately loaded their families into covered wagons, drawn by oxen, and started for safety. After going many miles it was discovered that a little boy six or seven years was missing. After a search through the wagons, they believed the Indians had stolen him. Then Tom was discovered asleep in a wagon of bedding driven by Negro John. The little boy grew up and lived to a ripe old age. He became one of the most honored of Fort Lupton's citizens, T. C. Winbourn. The winter was hard and cold. Small-pox and other diseases added to their suffering, but the pioneers were brave". (T. C. was Julina's brother and was actually about 13 years old-Bev)

HART TO HARTT SUPPLEMENT

Sewing Machine in 1800's

"In the early 60's (1860's) a man named Mr. Hazard of Henderson came to this community selling Wheeler and Wilson sewing machines. W. G. Winbourn bought the first one. Mr. Winbourn was so particular with his sewing machine that he did all the sewing himself. Women came from all over the country to have the ruffles made for their dresses. The ladies wore hoop skirts in those days with ruffles from the waist to the hem, which was about six inches from the floor and required about eighteen yards of ruffling".

*(W. G. was Julina's father)
From: My Grandmother's Scrap Book by Phyllis Burge Davis Ceretto-first grand child of William and Julina Winbourn Burge*

Indians Massacred a Family

"In the fall of 1864 a warning was given to the settlers on the west side of the South Platte River at Fort Lupton that band of Indians, most likely the Plains Sioux, had massacred a family in the north.

The settlers immediately gathered together few belongings they would need and started for the thriving little village, which is now Denver. They traveled in covered wagons drawn by oxen. From three and one half to four hours were necessary to make the hot, dusty trip in summer and in winter the long cold ride was much slower. The road followed the South Platte River and the trees gave protection from the Indians. In this group was the W. G. Winbourn family who lived just across the river west of Fort Lupton.

When the train of oxen-drawn wagons reached Denver they camped and found houses in which to spend the biggest part of that year. They were surrounded by United States Troops who provided security. Mr. Winbourn returned home to harvest his crop. He lived in the Fort and carried a gun with him everywhere he went in order to insure his safety.

In November a baby girl was born to the Winbourns. She was named Julina and later called Junie.

The following spring found the settlers returned to their homes where they planted their ground anticipating a fruitful harvest. The Fort provided protection in case of Indian raids. When Junie was two, Aunt Mary, Mr. Winbourn's sister came to live with them. She told an interesting story of her trip starting from Marysville, Missouri, in the spring with her nephew and crossing the plains in a prairie schooner. Her nephew's name was Allison C. Cheeley and the year was 1866.

(Allison was married to Martha Winbourn, Mary and W. G.'s sister--Bev)

On the Warpath

It was only the previous fall that the Plains Sioux had been on the warpath, and roving bands of Indians often came within sight of the pioneers. They reached Fort Lupton without the loss of a single member of their party late in the summer. One year before Aunt Mary's arrival in the little settlement, a white man had been killed only a quarter of a mile from the earthen fort. Indian scares were common in the late sixties and the women and children often went to the fort for protection.

Aunt Mary had never married. Romances were many in her life and as a southern belle in the Confederate town of Greensboro, NC she had many suitors; but she had believed it her duty to care for her invalid mother. When she came to live with her brother and his family she brought among her treasures from the South a Bible which been in her family 150 years, bits of rare lace, and pressed flowers gathered from the battlefield near Greensboro, where General McClellan waged his battles.

HART TO HARTT SUPPLEMENT

When Junie and her brothers and sister became of school age they attended school in Fort Lupton and at various times in Denver if the Indians were particularly unfriendly.

Mr. Winbourn had quite a number of horses and cows. They made good use of fresh milk and cream. When they churned their own butter, they had more than needed for their own use. They exchanged the extra butter for groceries. On these trips to town the girls rode in the back of the wagon on new mown hay and Cottonwood boughs which were placed there to protect the butter from the hot sun.

The W. G. Winbourns had now moved from their home on the island surrounded by the South Platte River and the Lupton Bottom Ditch to their new home on the mainland about a quarter of a mile north. This was also built of logs. One of the milk houses was made of grout, a cement-like mixture made of lime and gravel. This land west of the river was called Lupton Bottoms.

However, they lived here for a very short time as this home was destroyed by fire and they built a new home which was still to the north. This time a large barn was built of grout. By this time Mr. Winbourn was a prominent citizen and politician of Weld County. He was very much interested in the building of the first depot for the Union Pacific Railroad. He owned much of the land where Fort Lupton now stands after purchasing eighty acres from the railroad company.

During this time the Twombly Store, a red brick establishment had been built. Beside it Mr. Winbourn built a hotel in which space was left for a store which he afterwards established."

1938 January-Funeral Services for Mrs. Julina Burge

Are held Wednesday Afternoon.

A quiet life came to a close on Monday morning, January 17, at 9:45 o'clock, when Mrs. Julina Burge passed into the Great Beyond at her home, Third Street and McKinley Avenue, Fort Lupton, Colorado.

For twenty-eight years, with patience and fortitude, Mrs. Burge has been fighting what terminated into a losing battle against mortal illness. She had been an invalid for the past eighteen years.

Her appreciation of every kindness extended her during the time she was shut in and her cheerful, courage and lively spirit made it a pleasure to be near her and care for her.

During all her illness she was never heard to complain and although her life was quiet, the spirit of charity, hospitality and loyalty was prominent.

Julina Winbourn Burge was born to W. G. and Mary Winbourn Nov. 4, 1864 on 13th Street in Denver, making for her the distinction of being one of the oldest pioneers to be born in this part of Colorado and placed her in close contact with the early development of Fort Lupton.

After her parents had established their residence in what is now known as the old Winbourn home west of Fort Lupton, they returned to Denver for two winters to avoid the annoyance of Indian uprisings and to send their children to school; hence Mrs. Burge's early schooling was in the Denver and Fort Lupton schools.

After finishing her elementary schooling here she attended the Scottsboro Academy at Scottsboro, Alabama. There she met William J. Burge to whom she was married on August 21, 1883, at Woodville, Alabama. They came to Fort Lupton in September 1883 and established a home two miles west of Fort Lupton at what is known as the old Burge home. (at the foot of Burge Hill on the south side of the road)

Fourteen children were born to this union. Five preceded Julina in death, two boys and one girl died in infancy, and two sons, Lee Hampton, passed away Jan. 11, 1901, at the age of 14 years, and William Marvin, passed away, April 8, 1935, at the age of 44 years.

William J., the husband, died on Dec. 16, 1912, at San Antonio, Texas, where they had gone for her health.

She is survived by eight sons and one daughter, Wylie W., Albert C., Floyd W., and Norman B., of Fort Lupton, and Walter T., Thomas F., Francis W., all of Los Angeles; Dennis A., and the daughter, Mrs. Pearl Trunk of El Monte, Calif.; and 17 grand children, Phyllis Davis, Dorothy Nordyke, Eileen Burge, Eugene Burge, Donald Burge, Ethel Burge, Alberta Burge, all of Fort Lupton; Helen Winters, Betty Burge, and Byron Burge of Los Angeles, Beverly Burge, Junior Trunk, William Trunk, Shirley Trunk, Marian Trunk, Lucille Trunk, VA Trunk, of El Monte, Calif., and one great-grandchild, Marlene Davis of Fort Lupton; one brother, R. Burge of Fort Lupton; four nieces, Nellie Day and Mary Blake of Greeley, Mable Laudre of Oakland, Calif., Sara Bateman of Fort Lupton, four nephews, Ray Burge of Los Angeles, Robert and Dale Burge of Fort Lupton, and Will Winbourn of Salem, Oregon.

She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Fort Lupton and of the Ladies Aid. To her church as to her organizations she was a devoted and conscientious member.

She became affiliated with Bountiful Chapter No. 72, O. E. S. on March 17, 1911.

For many years she belonged to the West Side Domino Club.

William was the known son of Wylie and Martha Wisdom Burge and may have been their first child who was born on July 12, 1860. Two sons were born after William and a brother and sister died when William was a young boy. After the war, in about 1867, his parents, William and his brother, Wylie, moved from Whitesville, Harris Co, GA to Jackson Co, AL. He grew up in this area, on a farm, until his marriage. (William G. Winbourn, William's father-in-law) ". . . welcomed him into his home. The son-in-law got on the old man's nerves and he decided to put him to breaking wild horses, in which Winbourn made a specialty. Burge, a mule specialist, knew very little about horses, and the first wild team that he hitched up ran away and threw him out of the wagon, breaking both legs at the ankle. When W. G. came home, he found his son-in-law in bed in the front room, and after a couple of months of this close association, decided as a matter of self protection to stake Burge to a dryland farm. Twenty years later, Burge had more real money than his father-in-law, owned most of the farms in his neighborhood, and had brought into being a lot of sturdy sons to help till them".

Burge Hill:

About one and one-half miles west of Fort Lupton the land becomes steeply elevated and this was the location of Will's farm. The home place, where all of his children were born, was at the base of this elevated area. A road, now Colorado State Highway #52, ran East and West alongside the farm and up a steep hill. This hill became a landmark known as Burge Hill and is still used as a reference point. Many accidents occurred on this road and in more recent years, the highway department scaled down the hill and paved the road. Dennis Burge, one of Will's sons, was thrown from a

W. J. Burge

The following was written by his son, Dennis A. Burge, to the Fort Lupton Press:

The Fort Lupton State Bank

Prior to the year of 1900, Fort Lupton was without any banking facilities. Most local banking was done in Brighton, Colorado. Mr. S. G. Hurst had a general merchandise store there and also did a banking business, known as The Bank of Brighton.

My father, William J. Burge, who was a rancher and stockman living west of Fort Lupton along with some other ranchers and cattlemen, raised a sufficient amount of money to convince Mr. Hurst to open a banking facility in Fort Lupton. Mr. Hurst established this money agency with himself as president and Mr. S. J. Rhode, an employee in his store, as cashier. The ranchers and cattlemen were the directors.

The agency was opened in The Lupton Hotel building which had been built by the late W. G. Winbourn, my grandfather and the father-in-law of Mr. Burge. The new banking agency prospered. Mr. Rhode soon assumed full charge and M. B. Rhode was brought into the bank.

In 1910 the bank was chartered and became The Fort Lupton State Bank. The officers were: M. B. Rhode, President; S. J. Rhode, Vice President and Cashier; and William J. Burge, G. S. Allsebrook, H. H. Ewing, B. F. Twombly, I. W. Wallace, and S. J. Rhode, Directors.

The cattlemen and ranchers lived in the Fort Lupton vicinity. The Burge family lived west of Fort Lupton at Burge Hill. The Allsebrook and Wallace families lived south of town. The Ewing family resided north of town at the site of the Fort and the Twombly family lived east of town at Twombly Hill.

I presume that all of these persons are deceased. Mr. Burge died in 1912 but his original stock remained in the family for over forty years. At the settlement of the Burge estate in 1941, this stock was sold back to the bank.

The funeral services of

William Jefferson Burge

Services were held last Sunday at the M. E. Church, of which Mr. Burge was a trustee, by the Rev. Adams.

After the services at the church the remains were given to the Masonic Lodge of which Mr. Burge was a member. The ceremony given by the local lodge was very impressive, about 45 masons being in procession with the members of the Eastern Star to lead the procession. The coffin which held the remains was banked with lovely floral offerings as a token of the friendship which existed between Mr. Burge and his many friends.

1938 February 3--Thomas F. Burge one of Will's older sons in California wrote to the courts inquiring about the estate of his father, William JAMES Burge. Everyone has always taken it for granted that Will's middle name was JEFFERSON but in checking the records that I have, only the initial J. has been used. (James Burge was his 2nd great grandfather.)

Generation Nine

*Dennis Allen Burge 1906-1985

(Dennis, Julina, William, Cornelius, David, John, John, Elizabeth, Isaac)

Dennis was born on September 22, 1906 and grew up one and one-half miles west of Fort Lupton, Colorado on the Burge home place at the foot of Burge Hill. He was the 13th and next to youngest child of William Jefferson and Julina H. Winbourn Burge. He attended schools in Fort Lupton and California, as his parents would go there and other places for periods of time due to his mother's poor health and to escape the cold winters in Colorado. Five of his brothers and only sister would choose to live in California, with two brothers moving back to Colorado in the late forties. He was only 6 years when his father died and his oldest brother, Wylie, was named his guardian. Sometimes he would stay at the home of Wylie when his parents traveled and was probably staying there when his father died.

He is on the 1910 Census Weld Co, CO living in the household of his father, William J. Burge.

1915 Sept-1916 May 16--Dennis attended the Fort Lupton Consolidated School: Dist. No. 8, Weld County, Colorado. He attended school 143 days, 0 times tardy and his grade average was G+ for nearly perfect and G for good. His report card shows his third grade teacher was Mrs. Theodora C. Hubbell and he was promoted to the fourth grade. During December and January he was in class for a total of only 24 days; he may have been in school in CA at that time. or it was a long Christmas break.

The 1920 Census Weld Co, CO lists him in the household of his mother, Julina W. Burge. Dennis also lived in California when he was an adult, working with his brothers Pete and Johnnie, in the produce industry. On Oct 27, 1930 when he married Maud W. Thorley, he was living in Hanford, Kings Co, CA. In 1938 he lived in El Monte, Los Angeles Co, CA. From 1933-1941 he was a truck driver for Pacific Motor Transport Company in Los Angeles, where his two daughters were born; Beverly in 1933 and Julina in 1941. Prior to the family moving to Colorado, Dennis and his family, his two brothers, Jim and Pete, with their families lived on the same block, Garnet Street in Los Angeles.

He returned to Fort Lupton, Weld Co, CO in April, 1942, when he inherited farm land from his mother's estate* and farmed there for many years. He had many other jobs to supplement his farming income. One year he raised chickens but a hail storm killed almost all of them. He was a produce inspector during the fall months when the potatoes and onions were harvested. In the winter, he hauled coal and worked at The Great Western Sugar Company, the sugar beet factory. In about 1950 he leased his farmland and went to work for the Union Pacific Railroad. He worked there for many years. Just before he retired, in about 1966, he had his own Farmers Union Insurance agency.

He then moved to Arvada, Jefferson Co, CO and lived with his daughter, Beverly, and her family but wintered in Phoenix, Arizona. In

HART TO HARTT SUPPLEMENT

1975 he moved to Grand Junction, Mesa Co, CO and in 1980 to Houston, Harris Co, TX when his son-in-law was transferred in his job. When oil was discovered on his property in about 1983, he decided to sell his land and travel. When his health began to fail, he moved to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows Home in Canon City, Colorado and was residing there at the time of his death on October 13, 1985.

He was very active in the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and became Grand Master in 1958 for the state of Colorado. He visited and conducted meetings at every Odd Fellow hall in Colorado, while he was Grand Master and also went to every state in the United States, in connection with the IOOF. His memberships included: IOOF Lodge #100, of which he was Past Noble Grand, Junior IOOF Sabre Tooth #4, and Bluebird Rebekah Lodge #28 in Fort Lupton, Colorado; Columbus Encampment #18, Canton Longmont #3, Longmont and the Rocky Mountain Lodge #2, Central City, Colorado. He was also a member of the First United Methodist Church in Fort Lupton. In addition to his IOOF activities, Dennis' favorite pastimes were ballroom dancing, cross word puzzles and fishing. He was a staunch Democrat and would argue politics with Democrats and Republicans alike. During election times he volunteered for the Democratic party candidates that he supported.

My father told me he was named for a character in a book his mother was reading just before he was born. This is probably true as most of his older brothers were named after ancestors and there may have been no family names left--or she just wanted a son with a non-family name. Although, his next and last brother was named after a female cousin, Norma Brown. The first names Wylie, Thomas, and William were names of Burge ancestors; William also being a Winbourn first name (Dennis' grandfather). Francis was a Wisdom ancestor as were the names Fisher and Woodall. The name Clark was Dennis' great grandmother's maiden name.

From Julyna:

When cousins, Janice, Bobby & Panalee visited a couple of years ago or more, Jan said that our Dad was nursed by Bessie Mayfield (Great aunt) for a period of time because Grandma Julina was ailing after the birth. Jan claims that Bessie is the one that named him. Just another "thing of question" to add to the history. Dennis was the last child of William and Julina Burge to pass away. He was 79 years old when he died, older than his parents and older than all of his siblings when they died.

*Maude Whitcomb Thorley Burge (1912-1967)

Wife of Dennis Allen Burge

"Maudie" was born December 25, 1912 in Portland, Multnomah Co, OR and was the daughter of Stephen Wilson and Mary Elizabeth Plumb/Plynt Thorley.

My mother was a very small, petite ball of fire and could work circles around anyone. She seemed to have a lot of energy or it may be that I had none. She stood less than five feet tall, wore a size 4 shoe and weighed barely one hundred pounds. To me, she was a very pretty woman. When she was about 16 years old, she left home, as she and her step-father did not get along. She moved to Venice, CA and lived with Eva Cook, a friend of hers. Working in a restaurant there is where she met her husband to be, my father. It is not known if she graduated from high school. She probably did not as she was married in October 1930 and would have been in the graduating class of 1931. Their marriage took place in Visalia, Tulare Co, CA.

Any earlier knowledge of my mother is lacking. As an "only" child for eight years, I took everything for granted, felt safe and secure and didn't worry about tomorrow let alone yesterday. I am sure she told me about her early life but did I not retain what I was told, which I now regret.

She always worked out of the home from being a waitress (when I was about six), to cleaning houses, and eventually being a clerk and bookkeeper at the Fort Lupton Hardware and Supply store. I learned from this, that as a mother myself, I would always be there when my children came home from school because I didn't like coming home to an empty house. I achieved this goal.

My mother was also my best friend and I missed her tremendously when she wasn't there. When at home, she kept a clean house, was an excellent cook, and in the summer canned all our fruits and vegetables. Moving from California to the farm in Fort Lupton during World War II was not easy for her; we had neither electricity nor indoor plumbing, including water. I watched her work very hard and am sure I did not contribute as much as I should have.

Some of Mom's favorite things were Emeraude perfume, pansies, Judy Garland, and movies--I remember during the 40's we saw many musicals that were featured at the Star Theater in Fort Lupton.

After my graduation in 1951, when I was seventeen, I moved out on my own. Shortly thereafter, she and my father were divorced. She remarried in about 1955 to Charles Embrey and they moved to California.
