

RICHARD CARVER, born abt. 1577 or 1587, probably in Filby, Norfolk, England. He died in September 1641 in Watertown, Massachusetts

Carver married his first wife, Margaret Skurrie, on November 24, 1614. She was born in 1593 in Filby, England. Margaret died in November 1618.

Carver married his second wife, Elizabeth, in 1619 in Filby. She was born in 1595 in Filby. Elizabeth died November 1622 in Filby.

Carver married his third wife, Grace Walker, on June 7, 1623, in St. Stephen, Norwich, Norfolk, England. Grace Walker was born in 1599 in Norwich, Norfolk, England. Grace died July 20, 1671 in Watertown, Massachusetts. There was also a Governor John Carver, born 1560, a Deacon and passenger on the Mayflower. I wonder if he is a brother or relative.

The Public Records Office in London listed 115 Norfolk residents licensed to pass to New England in April 1637 on either the "John and Dorothy" or the "Rose".

It was customary for young and unmarried men to engage themselves for two or three years as an employee of an older planter who would pay their passage to the New World.

Once Carver died Isaac would have served his term of indebtedness.
